

2009 World Championship Show Sale

Stability Returning to Market

November 16, 2009 - Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

Increases in average price and gross sales in all sessions showed that stability is returning to the horse market following significant decreases in all segments of the horse industry.

The highest selling item at the 2009 sale was the original Orren Mixer painting of Wimpy P-1 at $120,000. The painting was consigned by Reynolds Moreland III and was purchased by Hendrik and Lettie Smeding of Snell Valley Ranch in California.

Original Orren Mixer Painting of Wimpy P-1 Sells for $120,000

The American Quarter Horse Journal, November 16, 2009 - On Sunday, November 15, an original painting of Wimpy P-1 sold at the 2009 American Quarter Horse Association World Championship Show Sale for $120,000. The legendary painting by the late American Quarter Horse Hall of Fame member Orren Mixer was purchased by Hendrik and Lettie Smeding of Pope Valley, California, via telephone bid.

The painting was commissioned by Rex Cauble, the last recorded owner of Wimpy P-1, the first horse registered with the American Quarter Horse Association at its founding. It was consigned by Reynolds and Lisa Moreland of Mays Lick, Kentucky, who purchased the painting from Cauble prior to his death in 2003.

“We had inquiries about the painting,” Reynolds said about his decision to sell the painting, the original of an iconic image of Wimpy P-1 used publicly for decades. “I had people approach me to give it away.

“I approached Mike Jennings (of Professional Auction Services Inc.) last year and asked him, “Have you ever thought about auctioning artwork?” he continued. “After Mr. Mixer passed away, I had people show an interest. I told Mike what my idea was, he said this might be something we could do.

“(Selling the painting at the World Show Sale) in my opinion, that was going to be the best audience, the largest audience in one spot that would be interested in it,” he added. “It’s my understanding that none of Mr. Mixer’s paintings have ever sold (at public auction), it was all commission work.”

When the gavel fell Sunday at the World Show sale, Hendrik and Lettie Smeding were the new owners of this historic painting.

“We plan to keep it and enjoy it,” Lettie said. “We’re pretty excited. It was one of those things when we saw it in the sale, we just decided let’s see if we can get it or not.”

The Smedings own a ranch in Napa County, and have horses and cattle, and recently acquired a new stallion, Dual Star Cat.

“We like Quarter Horse art and all kinds of horse art,” Lettie said. “It was a good fit and good timing.”

She added that it was exciting to see a painting of the late Orren Mixer go through public auction.

“We were hopeful and really surprised (to get it),” she said. “Growing up and seeing this painting and photographs of the painting, it was just something that stood out in my mind that it would be neat to have: the No. 1 horse!”
